

Grayson's Dispatch

*Col. William Grayson Chapter,
Virginia Society, Sons of the American Revolution*

Volume 1

October 2007

Number 1

President's Message

Congratulations! An expert rider on a fast mount sent by the colonel brings his first dispatch!

In November 2006, then VASSAR President Jim Bayne asked me to take a lead in forming a new chapter in the Gainesville/Manassas/Centerville area. In just six short months we have gone from concept, through three organizational meetings, drafting of a constitution and bylaws, and installing officers.

VASSAR President Joe Dooley presents Charter to Chapter President Thad Hartman

As a fully functioning chapter, the Colonel William Grayson Chapter has now matured to the point where we can publish a newsletter. You may wish to retain this premier issue for reference. Its contents include a brief biography of our namesake, a report on the status of his grave, a copy of our constitution and bylaws and names of our officers and charter members.

Compatriot Jim Logan deserves our thanks and support for taking on this important endeavor. We each need to remember that Jim can't do it all by himself. The Grayson's Dispatch will only succeed if we all contribute. Please consider submitting something for inclusion in future editions. ANYTHING related to the Revolutionary War period or genealogical research is a satisfactory topic. An article about your Revolutionary War ancestor or your ancestral family would be informative, interesting and very suitable for our newsletter.

Although nearly all of us came from other chapters it is imperative that we form a cohesive unit, each man contributing in his own way, implementing the programs of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. Service to the community is a primary purpose of the SAR. We have begun by implementing the essay, oration and JROTC programs in a few of the local high schools. I am also doing the preliminary work required for grave markings.

Compatriots, I believe in America. Like yours, many of my ancestors helped to build this great nation; they contributed economically; they settled new country; and they fought for America. Let's make the Colonel William Grayson Chapter a recognized service organization in our area. Our chapter will accomplish noteworthy things with just a little effort from each of us.

JUST WHO WAS WILLIAM GRAYSON

During our Chartering meeting, several members enquired as to the significance of the name we selected for our new Chapter. Although the excellent biography VASSAR President Joe Dooley provided should have more than fully responded to such questions, for the benefit of those members who were not present or wish some further elaboration, I will briefly recapitulate.

Colonel William Grayson rivals Brigadier General "Light Horse" Harry Lee as Prince William County's most notable Revolutionary War Patriot. Born in 1736, William Grayson was the son of a prosperous Scottish merchant who had settled near Quantico Creek in Dumfries, Virginia, and had social and professional ties to other regional families of wealth and influence including that of George Washington. When William's father died in 1752, William inherited an estate that was estimated to be larger than Washington's holdings. Although William's inherited wealth, which he enhanced through good management and successful business ventures could have provided him a comfortable life, William chose to enter the profession of law. He graduated from what is now the University of Pennsylvania in 1760 and acquired a law degree in London shortly thereafter. Upon his return to Prince William County, he built a thriving practice. His clients included the most prominent families in the area including that of George Washington.

As the possibility of war with Britain loomed on the horizon, William quickly aligned with the patriot cause, serving on the Prince William County Committee of Safety, and as captain of a local militia company. Shortly after General Washington assumed command of the Continental Army, William resigned his position in the Virginia militia to become his military secretary. On 24 August 1776, Washington appointed him one of his aides de camp, a position in which he served with distinction during Washington's retreat from Long Island and the ensuing Battle of White Plains.

On January 1, 1777 William was commissioned Colonel of a Virginia regiment of the Continental Line. He commanded the regiment with skill and valor at Germantown and, subsequently at the Battle of Monmouth, during which his command was virtually destroyed. Thereafter, he resigned his commission to become a member of the Continental Board of War in Philadelphia, a position he continued to hold through 1781.

Upon returning to Dumfries, COL Grayson resumed the practice of law and married Eleanor Smallwood, a member of a prominent Maryland family, with whom he had four sons and a daughter. Between 1784 and in 1787, he served as one Virginia's four delegates to the Continental Congress and, in 1788, he was elected as a delegate to Virginia's convention to determine whether to ratify the Federal Constitution. Along with other notable Virginia patriots, such as Patrick Henry and George Mason, he became an ardent "antifederalist," opposing ratification of the Constitutional Convention's draft. In his view, the document favored the mercantile interests of the industrialized northern states at the expense of the agricultural South, and vested too much power in the hands of the national government. Despite his views, when the Constitution was ultimately ratified (with Virginia voting in favor), he became one of Virginia's first United States senators, an office he held at his death in 1790.

John DePue, Historian

Col Grayson's Grave Secure until 2013

Our historian, John DePue, recently wrote a number of Prince William County officials, including the Chariman of the Board of Supervisors and the Chairman of the Historical Commission. He expressed "the Chapter's concern about the possible disposition of Colonel Grayson's family homestead and gravesite in eastern Prince William County." He also expressed "support for the efforts of the William Grayson Foundation to preserve the property and protect Col Grayson's tomb."

A response from the Director of Public Works forwarded a copy of a letter from the Planning Office on the subject "Property at 2338 West Longview Drive and William Grayson Tomb." This letter stated in part "This property has been zoned R-4, Suburban Residential since 1958 as part of the Marumsco Hills subdivision. This zoning allows ¼-acre lot development by right. The property is currently designated SRL, Suburban Residential Low, in the Comprehensive Plan. The R-4 zoning is consistent with the Comprehensive Plan. We will ask if the Historical Commission would add this property to its list of DCR, Designated Cultural Resources, and if the Commission would recommend it be considered by the Board of County Supervisors for an amendment to the Comprehensive Plan."

In forwarding this letter, the Director of Public Works stated: "The County is aware of the William Grayson Foundation efforts to Preserve the property. On May 8 2007, the Prince William Historical Commission passed a resolution recommending the site for inclusion in the comprehensive Plan as a designated cultural resource."

Currently, The Good Shepherd Housing Foundation is "operating a homeless shelter on the property. Under an agreement with the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Good Shepherd Housing Foundation is obligated to operate the shelter on this property until 2013. Until that time no development is expected to occur on the property."
